Friendly reminder when there is a lot of volatility in the markets, if you have a @MakerDAO Vault - you can enable Automated Protection on @oasisdotapp with Stop-Loss based on the Collateral Ratio, or Auto Sells - to sell some collateral and pay-off some of the debt.

Protect against unnecessary losses

Reduce the risk of ruin with automated Stop-Loss. Cap your downside with the option to close to either Dai or ETH at your desired Price or Collateral level. Find out more about how it works here.

Setup Stop-Loss

Stop scrambling to manage a position

Get peace of mind and setup Auto-Sell to automatically protect your Vault. Sell collateral to repay your debt when you most need it. Find out more about how this works here.

PSM GUSD is about to hit its Maximum Debt Ceiling of 500 million.

Current reserves are at 472 million GUSD and makerburn.com has started showing annualized earnings coming from the GUSD partnership based on the GUSD average balance over the last 30 days.

Maker @MakerDAO · Nov 8   ⋯

If reserves remain this high, the makerburn.com average monthly balance should increase over this month.

Today, the average monthly balance of November is 391 million GUSD, which means a monthly interest of ~407k GUSD and an annualized interest of ~4.9 million GUSD.

Thanks for sharing this onwards, guys! 🙏

For anyone wondering what's going on here, here's a quick rundown:

DeFi Saver @DeFiSaver · Oct 22

🤔What is a Boost?

A boost transaction for Maker Vaults consists of three actions done in a single transaction:
1 - Borrow $DAI
2 - Swap $DAI for $ETH
3 - Add $ETH* to Vault

💡 It enables quick leveraging up at times when you feel bullish on ETH (*or any other supported token!). twitter.com/MakerDAO/statu...

PSM GUSD started to fill up and now accumulates over 370 million GUSD.

With an average monthly balance of 312 million GUSD for November, MakerDAO would receive a $325k payment from @Gemini's partnership.

That means annualized earnings of $4 million from GUSD.
